

Half Term Approaching

We have had a very busy half term and are already in the final few days before we break up for a week!

It is a particularly exciting time for Year 3 & 4 as they will be visiting Horstead this week for their residential which they have all been looking forward to.

I will be taking a short amount of time off school from Wednesday 13th February to Monday 4th March for the arrival of my son to the Khan household! In this time please contact Mrs Hall, Mrs Stops or Mrs Buchanan if you need to talk to any members of the school Senior Leadership Team.

Sadly, Mr George will no longer be with us after half term as he moves on to pursue a career in secondary education; we all wish him the very best.

Mr Khan ☺

Half Term Challenge

How many different places can we collectively visit over half term?

Are you planning any days out during half term? If so take some photos and get your child to write a few sentences about where you have gone / what you have done. On my office wall I have a map of Norfolk which I can place a marker on with your child's name to show where they have visited. I also have a folder in which I can place photos and a description of the day. If you visit somewhere outside of Norfolk or the UK this will also be great to know about as I can place photos and a description about this in my folder.

Hopefully between everyone we can explore at least every corner of our wonderful county!

Red Hand Day

Yesterday was 'Red Hand Day' which aims to raise awareness of children who are forced into becoming, or have no choice but to become child soldiers. This typically is in countries which are war zones. There is more information on this link:

We were very lucky at Buxton Primary School to have the amazing A De Rai (Piff) come in and join our Key Stage 2 classes for an assembly and question & answer sessions in their classes. A De shared his experiences of being a child soldier, escaping this lifestyle and becoming the success he is today.
